Take a jeweled cross to remember the Centurion who realized that Jesus was the Son of God.

Station 13: Joseph of Arimathea

Matthew 27:57-61

Joseph of Arimathea took Jesus' body to his own new tomb, and rolled a stone over the entrance.

Take a stone to remember the stone that Joseph of Arimathea rolled in front of the tomb.

Station 14: Nicodemus

John 19:38-42

Nicodemus helped Joseph to carry Jesus' body and get it ready for burial.

Take a strip of cloth to remember Nicodemus wrapping up Jesus' body.

Station 15: The women

Luke 23:55--56

The women followed Jesus at a distance, all the way to the tomb. Then they went home to prepare spices and perfumes.

Take some cloves to remember the women who watched and waited.

It may feel rather incomplete to stop here. What an abrupt ending to such a horrific story! However, Good Friday is supposed to feel wrong because it's the day Jesus—an innocent man—God's own Son—died a criminal's death. At the same time we call it "Good" because without Jesus' death on the cross—His payment for our sin-- our relationship with God would be forever broken. He took the punishment we deserve. This is the Good News that we cling to as we look forward to celebrating His redemptive victory over death on Easter morning! The story is not over yet!
